9 Days 8 Nights – The Roman Maghreb, The Land of Saints & The Battle of Kings Tour

This tour, we will examine the important and founding of Morocco port. Their important position in the Phoenician period, 1550 BC to 300 BC, an ancient Canaan civilization and owe their wealth from maritime trade. The story of their arrival and founding of Tangier, Larache and Lixus has maintain it mark and influences of each of these cities as important maritime trading post until today.

The Roman, who was in power from 31 BC and until their fall on 476 when Emperor Romulus Augustus was ousted from power. The Roman came into North Africa after their victory during the Punic war in 149 – 146 BC for military expansion and also find fertile ground for cultivation of grains to feed the ever expanding population and troops to sustain the empire. From their ruin, it is clear that Roman food production at that period, are very advance, mass producing olive oil, salted fish, garum, a type of fish sauce and the nearby ocean provide tuna, mackerel and other seafood. Their presence and food technology left an indelible mark on history. First the pastoral of Morocco, spurred the growth of a settled, agricultural way of life and the rise of towns and cities. Secondly, it helped make long-range shipment of goods a regular feature of the world economy through the establishment of shipping lanes, the construction of special containers, boats, docks, lighthouses and road, not to mentioned the development of techniques and occupations associated with these. Thirdly, it leads to the invention of food processing technologies and founding one of the world first factories.

Our journey carried us to step back in time, and offer a moment of a silent prayer, in the remembrance for those who died in the worst war of the entire history of North Africa and also Portugal. The “Battle of 3 Kings” as it is known, where Spanish King Sebastian 1, Moroccan ousted Sultan Abu Abdullah and Sultan Abd Al Malik, three famous leader of powerful kingdom died in one day together with an estimate of 15,000 men perish in the 6 hours battle. Many historian believed that if this incident did not occur history will have a new story to tell.

This special tour program proceed to present you with our signature series “ The Invisible Museum” a project dedicated to search for “Morocco’s Lost Jewish Heritage”. According to oral tradition, Jews started to arrive some times in 70 AD, right after the destruction of the first temple in Jerusalem. There are about a quarter of million population before Morocco independence and only less than 2500 Jews left residing here. Morocco used to be having the highest Jewish population in the world. As we navigate into the ancient medina, Jewish presence in what we known as Jewish Quarters together with beautiful synagogue and 500 years old cemetery.
